Students' Bill of Rights

US Constitution

The first ten amendments to the US Constitution detail the rights of the people and the states in the United States. You have the freedom of speech and the right to a jury of your peers because it is stated in the Bill of Rights (1791).

Use the amendments as a model to create a Students' Bill of Rights. Write ten "laws" that you would like to see passed to protect the rights of students. Underneath each law explain its purpose and why it's necessary for the good of the nation.
